

Growth Reflection

Working on this assignment has helped me be able to learn new concepts about evolution and natural selection while also being able to change the information into an easier to understand format for younger children to understand. When thinking from a different perspective and drawing colorful illustrations it pushed me out of my comfort zone and allowed me to try new things.

I have not had to make any corrections to this assignment but if I did I would have redone the story and made slight edits so it would flow smoothly throughout. In the future, I would have added better illustrations to my creation, because I am not the most talented drawer I may have approached it from a simpler way.
